“The Iron Maidens–Women at War in WWII”

by Mercian Military History Society Member

Ron Gallivan

The story of conscription of women in the war effort involved in full or part-time war work and their many concerns, begging the question “Could we have won WWII without female conscription.

Watch out for mytreeitus

Mytreeitus \mī-trē-'ī-təs\ (noun)

An inflammation common to many genealogists.

Symptoms include :-

Extreme anxiety over others modifying their extensive genealogical research.

Possessiveness of ancestors.

Unwillingness to work in collaborative family trees.

Disregard for others when removing erroneous persons from their family.

Usually occurring in more mature adults and rarely seen in those under 40.

Learning to use FamilySearch Family Tree or WikiTree has been shown to be an effective treatment for this affliction.

I would love to have one of these samplers in my family tree
